Richard Dolgnow, owner of the Lazy D Shorthorn Ranch at Exeter, specially the Polled kind with the bone, length and scale he wanted.

In putting his original herd together McGuinness traveled over most of the nation, selecting animals that were taller and longer than the "squat" kind of cattle popular at that time.

McGuinness said he believed then that the bigger, taller cattle would again be popular, and he stayed with that kind of cattle. When the trend to today's "modern" kind of cattle began, he already had that kind of herd.

"I'm dispersing only because time has caught up with me—I'm just getting too old to handle a ranching operation any longer," he said.

Always active in Shorthorn circles, McGuinness recently donated a heifer to the Texas Junior Shorthorn Assn., proceeds from which will help finance junior activities such as shows at Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio and Houston.

Odin A. Lowe, Rockwall, will be the sale manager for the McGuinness dispersal, and Bruce Brooks, Ardmore, Okla., will be auctioneer.

The Texas Shorthorn Assn. will prepare and serve lunch at the sale.

For further information on the sale contact Odin A. Lowe, P. O. Box 155, Rockwall, Texas 75087, phone 214/722-3225; or Leo & Opal McGuinness, Irish Oaks Farm, Route 2, Box 46, Seagoville, Texas 75159, phone 214/474-2784.

McGuinness will disperse their famous Irish Oaks Farm's Polled Shorthorn herd in a sale at the farm near here beginning at 1 p.m., Saturday, May 20.

Majority of the cattle to be offered will come from the McGuinness herd, but guest consignors John David Smith, a Polled Shorthorn breeder at Seagoville, will have three females and one bull, and H. S. and Edna Osburn, of Denton, will have some females in the sale.

The Irish Oaks herd consists of about 40 females including 10 open heifers, 10 bred heifers, and 20 cows with calves. All the females will be pregnancy checked, and will have complete health papers for shipment anywhere in the nation.

McGuinness will also sell his three herd bulls and two yearling bulls. One of the older herd bulls is Coronet and Max Leader bloodlines, bred by Thimbley's Polled Shorthorns, Concordia, Mo. Another of the herd bulls is of Ginnell breeding.

McGuinness, who is 82 years old, went into the Shorthorn business 28 years ago at a time when Shorthorns were scarce in this area, as Houston — Danny Huddleston, 16, of Alba, Texas, a veteran of eight Houston Livestock Show competitions, capped his 1977-78 show season by taking both grand champion bull and female titles in the milking Shorthorn open show Feb. 25.

His four-year-old champion bull, "Oak Grove Golden Bo Lass 2d," had also been the grand champion at last year's Houston show, and champion at the one of the leading herds of the breed. Featured in the sale will be members of the show string that has been shown throughout the fall and winter show circuit.

Stuph & Thangs

Details, some obvious ones have surfaced. For instance, Sen. Long of Louisiana came around after his proposed Farm Bill went unopposed by the Administration. Numerous "undecided" Senators like Muskie and Hathaway of Maine embraced the Treaty shortly after Carter prevailed on the Defense Boss Brown to keep some military bases open up there. Just what went on between Senators like Belmont of Oklahoma and Brooke of Massachusetts is unclear, as are the details with some of the others who straddled the fence until the last minute, but rest assured deals were struck in the best traditions of Democratic Policy the way things used to be handled by LBJ, JFK and FDR.

Carter finally realized Congress could have the and hobble him unless he got into the game and there ain't any "lingerie" doubt that the prime mover in the "Education of Carter" was fellow like Speaker Tip O'Neill and Sen. Eastland and other old and wise heads on the Hill.

If you think this Panama Capor was something to watch, wait until Congress and Carter and the party faithful get going on some new projects. For instance, this new Urban Development Plan unveiled Monday. The key words in this matter came not from Carter, but from HUD Secy. Patricia Harris, whose department will be leading the way in spreading these goodies around and about.

Under the Nixon and Ford's New Federalism federal money was put back to the States and Cities in grants, usually block grants, which the State and Local politicians could pretty well squander in their own peculiar ways. A good example was the City of Pontiac, Mich., which built a Super Dome so the Detroit Lions football team would have a nice place to play. Other towns built tennis courts, swimming pools and other desperately needed necessities. No more. Mr. Harris says locals who get the goodies now will have federal guidelines, and if they don't obey, their warter will be cutoff. The Pork Barrel is back and since Carter has decided his Superman Suit don't quite fit the Occasion, the Politicians will be yodelin' "Happy Days Are Indeed Here Again!"

Relax folks, things are back to normal in Washington. Ever thine, The Editor.

P.S. Uncle Dunk reads where some of our European Friends, who know from experience more about Africa than the U.S. probably ever will, can't understand why the United States and Britain don't get behind the deal in Rhodesia worked out by the moderate blacks and whites instilled in our smart sick U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young keep playin' footsie with the outlaws like Nkomo & Mugabe with an estimated fewer than 6,000 guerrillas. They are now referin' to the odd stance as the Vietnam Syndrome. Could be, Dunk figures the way things are happenin' up the U.N. the U.S. plans on Antibiotics in Feed and the new Meat Gratin Program planned by Dr. Kennedy and Mr. Foreman, respectively, it appears the Natives are really fightin' back and this sort to give the Bureaucrats something to worry about. If they got sense enough to know a Red Light when they see it! — Thassal, Brother!

FDA's Proposals

would discriminate against thousands of small farmers who would be competing against the larger mills for veterinarians' services and their time. It was pointed out that at least 60% of today's practicing vets are engaged in small animal or horse practice and would not be available to serve the livestock and poultry farmers.

The proposed new rules would limit the distribution of feeds containing these antibiotics to those covered by prescription of a vet.
Dr. Donald Kennedy chaired the Ames meeting and claimed considerable pressure had been exerted on FDA in the matter since some in the medical profession fear the continued use of antibiotics at subtherapeutic levels would develop strains of bacteria resistant to them and would destroy the effectiveness of antibiotics to support human health. Kennedy added that the United Kingdom had placed restrictions on certain antibiotics.

The National Feed Ingredients Assn., pointed out that the loss of current uses of the antibiotics would practically eliminate all prevention uses as well as those treatment uses for which there are no other drugs which appear to be substitutes. It also pointed out that the substitution was based solely on the fact that the drug substitutes have similar purposes statement, but that it appeared no allowances were made for differences in effectiveness or costs.

NFIA spokesman James Pierce said the new restrictions would lead to "less wholesome, poorer quality meat, insufficient supplies of meat, milk and eggs and prices of these products" would make them unaffordable for many consumers. He also said no consideration had been given to the probability of bankruptcy of farmers, feeders and small agribusinesses.

Speaking for the Animal Health Institute Dr. David A. Phillipson termed the proposal both unlawful and impractical. He charged it would subvert the Carter Administration's promise to reduce interference by the federal government in the American economy. Phillipson pointed out the small quantities of these antibiotics in feed resulting in bacteria more resistant to the drugs "is, at best, a controversial hypothesis, lacking solid scientific support."

The subtherapeutic levels of antibiotics in feeds has been a common practice for more than two decades without any evidence that FDA's fears were justified.

Phillipson charged that the FDA commission was "throwing a bureaucratic monkey wrench into the drug distribution system," contrary to restrictions placed on FDA by Congress and was an "end run" around Congress intent by "laundering America's feed mills and farms with reams of additional, formal applications, requests for approval, and other paper work requirements."

The next hearing will be held March 30 at Raleigh, N.C., and the third scheduled for Dallas, Texas, on April 8.
